Fourth script.

My story will be that I'm trying to decide what is the perfect gift for my mom for Mother's Day. And with the help of my dad, I'll try to find the perfect gift.

First part.

Mother's Day is coming, and I don't know what to give my mom. She loves me very much and I love her too, so I want to give her something to surprise her, but I can't imagine what.

Flowers? No, she has a lot. Chocolates? No, she doesn't want to get fat. A dinner? Oh, but I don't know how to cook. Go to the movies? Oh, and it would be great to go see Guardians of the Galaxy, but the gift isn't for me, it's for her, and she wouldn't like it.

I'm going to ask dad for help.

Second part.

- Hey dad. What are you thinking?
- Nothing, I'm sleepy.
- I apologize but you can't sleep right now, I need your help.
- Why ?
- You know mom well, so what do you think she would like for Mother's Day?
- Um, a soccer ball.
- You are crazy, that's not amazing. The neighbor will give his mom a trip and that is a good idea, not a soccer ball.
- Yes, but he is rich.
- I can not believe you.
- I have something. Where are you?
- Now I'm here.
- Look at this.
- Really? Can you imagine what mom will say to me if I give her that? That's for my kitty. Forget it, I'm better than you at the moment of thinking

Third Part.

Well, dad didn't help me to find something for mom. But it doesn't matter, I'm better at thinking than him.

What can I give mom? Think, think, think. I can't believe it, I can't think of anything. Now I'm not sure what I'm going to do.

I have an idea, I'm going to look for something on the Internet. Wow, there are a lot of things to buy here, but I don't have money. Since my dad didn't help me think that he helps me to buy something. Yes, he can do that, I hope.
