

Ketlly and her great imagination

This is a story from a long time ago in a city in France there lived a girl named Ketlly who helped her family in the bakery.

The family bakery offered the following products: bread, cakes, biscuits, French fries, mille-feuille, among others. Ketlly is a 7-year-old girl, her parents enrolled her in school in France so that one day they would have a better life, thus she would promote what they could not.

On the first day of school, Ketlly says that she made new friends, with her teacher and classmates they played many fun games and learned the vowels, but Kelly was a very imaginative girl and very cool with other people. At bedtime her mother used to tell her beautiful stories, but there was one story in particular that she liked very much, which was the land of dreams because it was a place where everything you imagine comes true.
