

I was new to the City I had to enter a new school with new classmates when I entered the class and introduced myself to a small group to finish classes and they asked me what I would do to answer that I had no plans they insisted on reaching me a place, what I saw was creepy, they had an idea that the new girl would enter and take out some object when she entered the Marrison mansion, I broke out in a cold sweat, the door was closed, I finding the exit, I panicked opening all the doors within my reach when I catch a glimpse of the infeasible door to entre I can see the exit.

