It all started in a basketball game, that I was playing on a saturday at 4 or 5 in the afternoon, we were playing against San Marcos department, it was time to go to the locker room to change and when I checked my briefcase I didn't bring my socks to play !!!! And in the rules it is stated that the player that doesn't have socks can't participate and I said why this is happening to me? I had everything in my bag: my uniform, my shoes, my knee pads, except my socks and I exclaimed What to do i need to do? and it occurred to me to go to the stands to give socks to a stranger at the end a person lent them to me and I could play the game but I had a tense and adrenaline rush.
